

Inventory of Counselling Resources for Survivors of Sexual Abuse and Sexual Assault

The individuals and agencies on this list have indicated that they provide counselling or therapy for survivors of sexual abuse/assault. The listing of treatment providers is not an endorsement and may not be exhaustive. When seeking a therapist, it is appropriate to ask the service provider about their clinical experience and training in the treatment of sexual abuse/assault survivors to determine if they will meet your specific needs. If the provider charges a fee, be sure to confirm the fee prior to service, as fees differ by provider.

Questions to ask a therapist:

Have you seen a lot of clients with similar concerns?

What concerns do you mostly deal with in your practice?

How long have you been in practice?

Can you tell me what your specific training and education is with survivors of sexual abuse?

Are you registered with a professional body?

What is the cost? What are payment options?

How long are the sessions?

What are the policies around missed and cancelled appointments?

Questions to ask yourself after the first few sessions:

Do I feel comfortable and respected by my therapist?

Do I feel that I can discuss my concerns with the therapist?

Do I feel rushed by my therapist?

Does my therapist educate me about trauma symptoms?

Is there anything about the sessions that made me feel uncomfortable?

Can the therapist tell me how we are going to work together?

How will I know if this is covered through my Employee Assistance Program?
