

The Patient Care Journey Providing the Right Care in the Right Place

Admission to hospital.

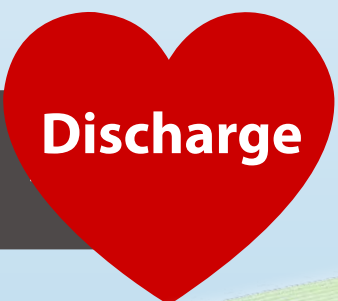

As a patient's care needs change, the hospital in which they are cared for may change as well.

Patients who no longer require specialized services may be transferred to another hospital to continue their plan of care.

When the health care team decides to transfer a patient, the patient's plan of care will be shared with the new care team.

Island residents with a valid PEI health card who are transferred to another hospital will not need to pay the ambulance transfer fee.

Patient care continues until the new health care team discharges the patient.
